CHAPTER V – DELEGATIONS

Section One: Delegations

Article 18

A delegation will be made up by a group of individuals who acquire the responsibility of representing a country in the various committees of MOVENU. A delegation within the committee will consist of one or two delegates, depending on the committee.

Article 19

The Delegation's obligations are to:

- a. Participate in MOVENU with an adequate preparation and with the goal of proposing feasible solutions to the topics being discussed;
- b. Be on time to every session;
- c. Hand in the Position Paper to the dais two weeks before the event;
- d. Have a diplomatic and respectful behavior towards the authorities of MOVENU and other delegations;
- e. Assure that at least one of two delegates is present in the committee at all times;
- f. Acknowledge the dais's decisions.

Section Two: Faculty Advisors and Head Delegates

Article 20

Each delegation will have a Faculty Advisor and/or a Head Delegate who will represent their group in the Delegates' Representatives Meeting and before MOVENU authorities.

Article 21

The Faculty Advisor's obligations are to:

- a. Represent its delegation before MOVENU authorities;
- b. Attend Head Delegate Meetings with the Academic Committee and the General Coordination;
- c. Address the members of his Delegation in order to know if there are any suggestions or complaints regarding the conference.

Article 22

The Faculty Advisor's attributions are to:

a. Make comments, suggestions, and complaints during meetings with the Academic Committee and the General Coordination;

Attend sessions of the various committees, avoiding by all means interference or communication with delegates.

Section Three: Credentials

Article 23

Credentials for delegates and observers will be given out before the first session. Access to committee sessions and further activities will be limited only to those with credentials.

Section Four: Observer Delegations

Article 24

Observer Delegations consist of:

- a. Non-Member States;
- b. Inter-Governmental Organizations;
- c. Non-Governmental Organizations;
- d. Specialized Agencies.

Article 25

Article 26

An Observer Delegation's attributions are to:

- a. Address the committee and introduce motions;
- b. Elaborate and promote Draft Resolutions;
- c. Be added to the speakers list as any other Member State.

Article 27

An Observer Delegation's special considerations are to:

- a. Have no right to vote on the approval of Draft Resolutions. If the dais considers it necessary, he will invite an Observer Delegation to vote on a Draft Resolution, clarifying that his vote is not countable;
- b. Have the right to be signatories on Draft Resolutions and Working papers, though its signature is not countable.

CHAPTER VI – SESSION BASICS

Section One: Position Papers

Article 28

Position Papers are an initial sketch of the approach and possible solutions each Delegation will have regarding the topic of the committee. They must be sent to the dais two weeks prior to the first session and will be made public so that all delegates have access to them.

Section Two: Quorum

Article 29

A session is declared open when at least 25% of the registered Delegations are present. The presence of at least half of the Delegations will be required for voting procedures that call for a qualified majority to be approved.

Article 30

In the Security Council all five permanent members must be present.

Article 31

If there is no quorum, the dais will wait 20 minutes for quorum in order to declare the session open.

Section Three: Setting the Agenda

Article 32

The first order of business for the committee will be the consideration of the agenda. This will only apply if the committee has more than one topic to discuss.

Article 33

Setting the Agenda consists of a speakers' list for each topic. A motion to close debate will be in order after the Committee has heard from at least two speakers for each topic. If the speaker's list on setting the agenda is exhausted, debate will automatically be closed.

Article 34

Once debate is closed, the committee will move to an immediate vote on the topic to be discussed first. Plurality is required for passage.

Section Four: Speakers' List

Article 35

Once the agenda has been determined, a Speakers' List will automatically be opened for the purpose of general debate on the topic. The chair will call out for speakers to be added to the list. Delegates wishing to be included in the Speaker's List must raise their placard and wait to be recognized by the chair.

Article 36

Any delegate who wishes to be added to the Speakers' List and was not recognized when the chair called for speakers shall request it in written form.

Article 37

The Speakers' List will remain open until debate on the topic is closed. If debate remains open and there are no delegations on the Speakers' List, Delegations will be called to speak in alphabetical order.

Article 38

Delegates must be recognized by the dais in order to address the session. The dais has the authority to call a speaker to order if his/her remarks are not relevant to the topic under discussion or if they are offensive to committee members of staff.

Article 39

Speaker's time will have a minimum of 30 seconds. At the beginning of the session the dais will set the speaker's time, however, delegates may change the time limit through a motion. The dais will notify the speaker when his/ her time is about to elapse using a non-verbal mean.

Article 40

A delegate granted the right to address the session on the Speaker's List may yield in one of four ways at the conclusion of his/her speech:

- a. To the chair: the dais will accept the yielded time and continue with the Speakers' List;
- b. To another delegate: the delegate will be able to accept or reject this time, however, they cannot yield it;
- c. To questions: the dais will recognize delegates to ask a question to the speaker. The dais will recognize the number of delegates he deems adequate, taking into consideration the time the speaker has left;
- d. To comments: the dais will recognize a maximum of 2 delegates to make a 30 second comment each;

Only one yield is allowed per speech (i.e. no yields on yielded time). There are no yields allowed if the delegate's time has expired. A delegate must declare any yield by the conclusion of his/her speech. If no yield is made, a yield to the chair will be automatically assumed.

Section Five: Closure of Debate

Article 41

When the floor is open, a delegate may move to close debate on the substantive or procedural matter under discussion. Delegates may move to close debate on the agenda or on the general topic. When closure of debate is moved, the chair may recognize two speakers against the motion. No speaker in favor of the motion will be recognized. Closure of debate requires a qualified majority for approval. If the motion passes, the committee will move immediately to voting procedure.

CHAPTER VII – POINTS AND MOTIONS

Article 42

In order to introduce a point or motion a delegate will raise his placard. Once recognized by the dais the delegate may rise to a motion or point. All motions must be introduced when the floor is open, voted upon, and approved in order to pass. Points are not voted upon, since they are a delegate's right.

Section One: Points

Article 43

During the discussion of any matter, a delegate may rise to a Point of Order to indicate an instance of improper procedure in accordance with these rules. A Point of Order may not interrupt a speaker.

Article 44

A delegate may rise to a Point of Parliamentary Inquiry to ask the chair a question regarding the rules of procedure. A point of Parliamentary Inquiry may never interrupt a speaker. Delegates with substantive questions should not rise to this point, but should rather send a note to the dais.

Article 45

Whenever a delegate experiences personal discomfort which impairs his/her ability to participate in the proceeding he/she may rise to a Point of Personal Privilege to request that the discomfort be corrected. While this point my interrupt a speaker, delegates should use this right with the utmost discretion.

Section Two: Unmoderated Caucus

Article 46

An Unmoderated Caucus is an informal debate that aims to facilitate dialogue, build consensus among delegates, and allow drafting of resolutions.

Article 47

The delegate making the motion must state the purpose of the Unmoderated Caucus and specify a time limit for it, not to exceed 30 minutes and that may be extended for maximum an equivalent period to the specified time.

Section Three: Moderated Caucus

Article 48

A Moderated Caucus is a formal debate chaired by the dais. Its fundamental purpose is to facilitate debate among delegates and to center debate on a specific matter.

Article 49

During a Moderated Caucus no delegate shall leave or enter the room. The duration of the caucus is not to exceed 30 minutes and may be extended for maximum an equivalent period to the specified time.

Article 50

When introducing a motion for a Moderated Caucus delegates should state its purpose, duration, and the time allotted for each speech. The delegate who introduces the motion shall be granted the right to speak first.

Article 51

All procedural motions will be out of order during a Moderated Caucus. Only Points will be taken.

Section Four: Motion for Suspension of the Meeting

Article 52

The time and grounds for this motion must be stated and the motion may only be introduced in accordance with the established schedule. This motion will require a simple majority to pass. It may be declared at the discretion of the Committee President or Vice President.

Article 53

During suspension of the meeting delegates will be asked to leave the room.

Section Five: Adjournment of the Meeting

Article 54

Adjournment of the meeting is the last motion to pass.

Article 55

Once the meeting has been adjourned, it will be closed until next year's session. This motion requires simple majority to pass.

CHAPTER VIII - VOTING

Section One: Types of Votes

Article 56

Voting on draft resolutions and parts of a draft resolution will be considered substantive voting. All other voting is considered procedural. There will be no abstentions on procedural matters.

Article 57

Delegates will use placards in order to vote on procedural matters. For substantive matters, delegates will be able to vote by placard or by roll-call.

Article 58

There will be three types of majorities:

- a. Simple majority: 50% of committee members present plus one;
- b. Plurality: refers to the option that gets the most votes of the committee members present;
- c. Qualified majority: at least two thirds (2/3) of committee members present.

Article 59

Each delegation will have only one vote. No delegation may vote for another delegation.

When voting by placard, delegates will raise their placards to vote "for" or "against" when indicated by the dais.

Article 61

During roll-call voting, the dais will call out members in alphabetical order. A delegate may request to explain his vote when his vote is against his country's policy. Such vote is termed "with rights". Thus, when a delegation is called, the delegate will have the option to vote "for", "against", "for with rights", "against with rights" or "abstain". The explanation of the vote will not exceed 30 seconds and will be delivered after voting procedure and at discretion of the chair.

Article 62

In the Security Council, all Permanent Five Members will have the right to veto any draft resolution.

Section Two: Voting Procedures

Article 63

This is the process of voting on draft resolutions. Once debate on the topic has been closed the committee will immediately move to Voting Procedures. For Voting Procedures the chamber will be sealed, thus no one will be allowed to enter or leave the room.

Article 64

During Voting Procedures all Points will be in order, but the only motions in order will be: Motion to Approve by Acclamation, Motion for Division of the Question, Motion for Roll Call Voting, and Motion for Reordering.

Article 65

Only one draft resolution shall pass per topic. The approval of a draft resolution, which translates into the achievement of a resolution, means all other draft resolutions are rejected by the committee.

Section Three: Division of the Question

Article 66

This motion will divide a draft resolution in various parts so that each part is voted upon separately.

Article 67

A delegate will introduce the motion and explain his proposal for the division. The dais will order the Motions for Division of the Question from the most to the least drastic division.

Article 68

Once ordered, each proposal will have two speakers for and two against and will be voted upon. Voting on a Division of the Question is a procedural vote and needs a simple majority for approval. Once a proposal has been approved all others will automatically be rejected, thus establishing the division of the Draft Resolution and the various parts that will be voted upon. If no Motion for Division of the Question passes, the draft resolution will remain as a whole.

Article 69

Each part defined by the division will be voted upon and will require a qualified majority to pass. This is substantive voting. All parts of the draft resolution that are subsequently passed will be recombined into a final document. The final document will be put to a substantive vote.

Section Four: Reordering Draft Resolutions

Article 70

The order in which draft resolutions will be voted on can be altered. This motion will only be in order immediately after entering voting procedure, and before voting has started on any draft resolutions. If the motion receives the simple majority required to pass, the chair will take all motions to reorder draft resolutions and then vote on them in the order in which they were introduced. Voting will continue until either a motion passes, receiving a simple majority, or all of the motions fail, in which case the committee will move into voting procedure, voting on the draft resolutions in their original order. Only one motion to reorder draft resolutions is in order in each round of voting procedures.

Section Five: Approval by Acclamation

Article 71

A Motion to Approve by Acclamation can be introduced. Any objection to this motion will make it fail.

CHAPTER IX – COMMITTEE DOCUMENTS

Section One: Working Papers

Article 72

A Working Paper is a document with ideas product of negotiation among delegates. Its goal is to facilitate the drafting of resolutions. It has no specific format, nevertheless, the name of the committee, and the topic must be specified. It does not require signatories.

Article 73

No motion is required to introduce Working Papers. However, all Working Papers need to be approved by the dais. Distribution will depend on the capabilities of the committee.

Article 74

The dais will grant a number, in ascending order, to each working paper.

Section Two: Draft Resolutions

Article 75

Draft Resolutions must be approved and signed by the dais. The dais will inform the committee once a Draft Resolution is approved.

Article 76

At least 20% of delegations present must sign a Draft Resolution for its approval. The dais will grant a number, in ascending order, to each Draft Resolution.

Article 77

A motion is required to introduce a Draft Resolution and requires simple majority to pass. There is no need to present a Working Paper before introducing a Draft Resolution. When introduced, copies of the Draft Resolution shall be distributed to delegates, depending on the capabilities of the committee.

Article 78

Two signing delegations will be asked to read the Draft Resolution before the committee.

CHAPTER X – SANCTIONS

Article 79

Infringement of these Rules of Procedure will be penalized with sanctions that will affect the academic evaluation of the delegate. The dais may sanction any delegate who behaves improperly during session. Any delegate that receives three sanctions will be expelled from MOVENU.

Article 80

Sanctions and expulsions from the event will be given according to the following guidelines:

Late arrival to session (after roll call): 1 sanction;

Repeated or deliberate misuse of the rules of procedure: 1 sanction;

Attendance to session with improper dress code: 1 sanction;

Use of inappropriate language during session: 1 sanction;

Disturbing the flow of debate: 2 sanctions;

Physical aggression to any delegate or member of the directive board: Expulsion from the event;

CHAPTER XI – AWARDS

Article 81

MOVENU recognizes those delegations that excel in the committee. Committee awards will consist of a "Best Delegation" and "Honorable Mention". The number of awards will depend on the size of the committee:

Asamblea General: 1 Best Delegation and 2 Honorable Mentions;

Consejo General de la OMC: 1 Best Delegation and 2 Honorable Mentions;

PNUD: 1 Best Delegation and 2 Honorable Mentions;

Consejo de Seguridad Histórico: 1 Best Delegation and 1 Honorable Mention;
